

Name:(optional)

Mental Health– Myth or Fact?

Instructions:
Read each statement carefully and decide if you think it is a Myth or a Fact.
Tick the correct answer. This activity will help you better understand mental health and address common misconceptions about mental illness.

Statements	Myth	Fact
Mental illness is a result of weak willpower.
Mental illness can affect anyone, regardless of age, background, or lifestyle.
People with mental illness can never fully recover or lead productive lives.
Talking to a friend or family member about your mental health can be helpful.
Mental health problems are uncommon and only affect a small percentage of people.
Taking medication is the only way to treat mental illness.
Mental illnesses are just as real as physical illnesses and should be taken seriously.
Exercise and healthy lifestyle choices can improve mental health.
People with mental illness are more violent than others.
Seeking help from a mental health professional, like a therapist, can be a healthy way to manage mental illness.

Reflection:
Why is it important to understand the difference between myths and facts about mental illness? Write a few sentences about how knowing the truth about mental health can make a difference for you and others.
Answer:

.....

.....

.....

.....